

Table of Contents

List of Illustrations	13
List of Abbreviations.....	15
1 Introduction	19
1.1 From ‘Fortress Europe’ to New ‘Limits of Control’? The Increasing Diversity of Refugee and Migration Policies in Europe	19
1.2 Research Questions: Multiple Mechanisms of Europeanisation	22
1.3 Constructing a Systematic Empirical Research Strategy: Comparative Case Studies in a Crucial Member State	24
1.4 Chapter Outline	27
2 Stocktaking the Europeanisation of Refugee and Migration Policies.....	29
2.1 Institutional and Substantive Developments in Europe’s Refugee and Migration Policies	29
2.1.1 Pre-Amsterdam Institutional Configurations and its Policy Outcomes	29
2.1.2 Post-Amsterdam Institutional Developments	33
2.1.3 Post-Amsterdam Substantive Policy Developments.....	36
2.2 Theoretical Frameworks Approaching the Europeanisation of Refugee and Migration Policies	41
2.2.1 Neo-Functionalism: The Weakness of Supranational Organisations	42
2.2.2 Intergovernmentalism: Executive Preferences at the Centre	45
2.2.3 Constructivism: The Power of Policy Ideas	48
2.2.4 Europeanisation: The Legacy of Historical Institutionalism	50
2.3 Approaching the Increasing Diversity of Europe’s Refugee and Migration Policies	52
3 The Political Sociology of European Refugee and Migration Policies.....	55
3.1 Outcomes of Europeanisation: Approaching the ‘Dependent Variable Problem’ ..	56
3.1.1 Outcome and Output Indicators.....	57
3.1.2 Quantitative and Qualitative Indicators	58
3.1.3 Direction of Europeanisation.....	59
3.1.4 Extent of Europeanisation	60
3.2 Mechanisms of Europeanisation: Theoretical Links between Europe and its Member States.....	63
3.2.1 Separating Two Dimensions of Europeanisation	63
3.2.2 A Typology of Mechanisms of Europeanisation.....	70
3.3 Analysing Europeanisation: Process Tracing in Comparative Case Studies	79
3.3.1 Turn the Tables: Analysing Europeanisation from the Bottom-Up.....	79
3.3.2 Process Tracing: Constructing Causal Inferences.....	82
3.3.3 Disaggregation: Comparative Case Studies in a Crucial Member State.....	85
3.4 Conclusion	90

4	Opposing Europe Through the Backdoor? Refugees between National Control Imperatives and the Supranationalisation of Rights	91
4.1	Introduction.....	91
4.2	Regaining Control: Three Rounds of Asylum Conflict in National Contexts	95
4.2.1	The First Round: Attempting to Restrict, Streamline and Deter.....	96
4.2.2	The Second Round: Dismantling the Constitutional Asylum Right	100
4.2.3	The Third Round: Policy Continuity After the Asylum Compromise	102
4.3	Power of Supranationalisation: Constitutionalising Refugee Rights in Europe ...	103
4.3.1	Ambitious Policy Proposals by the European Commission	104
4.3.2	Negotiating Refugee Rights within the Council	106
4.4	Opposition and Learning: The Fourth Round in Germany's Asylum Conflict in European Contexts	112
4.4.1	Opposing Europe: The Dominance of the Administration	112
4.4.2	Learning from Europe: Legislative Negotiations, Court Rooms and in the Streets	117
4.5	Conclusion	126
5	Circumventing National Enforcement Constraints? Shopping for Effective Return Policies in European Venues	129
5.1	Introduction.....	129
5.2	Gaps between Aims and Outcomes: Establishing a National Deportation Policy...	132
5.2.1	Transforming Deportation into an Instrument of Migration Control.....	132
5.2.2	National Enforcement Constraints.....	134
5.3	Executive Cooperation in Europe: Shopping for Multilateral Solutions.....	138
5.3.1	International Cooperation: Weaving the Readmission Net Closer	139
5.3.2	Operational Cooperation: Assisting Each Other with Deportations	142
5.3.3	Legal Harmonisation: Codifying Coercive State Capacities	147
5.4	Unbearable Lightness of Complying: The Administrative Implementation of New European Structures	150
5.4.1	Cosmetic Changes to the Legal Framework	150
5.4.2	Dualist Systems of Readmission	152
5.4.3	Centralised European Structures of Operational Cooperation.....	155
5.5	Conclusion	158
6	Policy Learning in Europe? New Ideas Governing Highly Skilled Labour Migration....	161
6.1	Introduction	161
6.2	Developing Policy Ideas and Templates: Towards a Common European Highly Skilled Labour Migration Policy.....	165
6.2.1	Security Considerations Trump Economic Interests.....	165
6.2.2	A New Policy Idea on Highly Skilled Labour Migration	167
6.2.3	New Policy Templates on Highly Skilled Labour Migration	170
6.3	Learning from Policy Ideas and Templates: Germany's Transformation from 'No Immigration' to the 'Welcome Culture'	177
6.3.1	Muddling Through: Labour Migration Policy until the 1990s	178
6.3.2	Putative Surprises: The Advent of New Norm Entrepreneurs	181
6.3.3	Incremental Transformation: National Policy Developments in a European Context	187
6.4	Conclusion	193

7	Playing a Wrong Plot? Rhetoric Compliance with Europe's Migration and Development Agenda	195
7.1	Introduction.....	195
7.2	Balancing Acts between Insurmountable Interests: Developing a Comprehensive Approach on Migration in Europe.....	198
7.2.1	Mutually Exclusive Disinterest between Migration and Development Actors.....	198
7.2.2	Making Migration Work for Development: The Birth of a New Policy Idea.....	200
7.2.3	Developing a Common Agenda: Concrete Policy Templates Addressing the Migration-Development Nexus	204
7.3	Progressive Ideas on Infertile Ground: Missing Resonance and Norm Entrepreneurs in Germany	209
7.3.1	The Migration-Development Nexus on the Ground: A Trimmed Agenda ...	210
7.3.2	Inconsistent Discourses: Missing Resonance of the New Policy Idea.....	218
7.3.3	Ministerial Turf Wars: The Absence of National Norm Entrepreneurs	225
7.4	Conclusion	230
8	Conclusion.....	233
8.1	Patterns of Europeanisation: Moderate but Diverse Impacts on Germany's Refugee and Migration Policies	234
8.2	Mechanisms of Europeanisation: From an External Venue for National Executives to Normalised Multi-Level Policy-Making Processes	239
8.3	Europe at the Crossroads: Mechanisms of Europeanisation and the Recent Migration Crises.....	248
	Bibliography.....	253
	Primary Sources.....	253
	Secondary Sources.....	271
	Index	309