

Contents

Acknowledgements	9
Preface: Pathways to the research questions	10
1 Introduction.....	11
1.1 The context of EU enlargement	13
1.2 Outline of my research questions	15
1.3 Studying migration and social pathways by means of life stories.....	15
1.4 Structure of this thesis.....	16
2 Context: Czech-German border crossings against the backdrop of the shifting landscape of European migration	20
2.1 Historical interconnections over the past millennium	21
2.2 The 19 th and 20 th century.....	22
2.3 Border crossings during the Cold War.....	25
2.4 The fall of the Iron Curtain in 1989 and the establishment of new migratory spaces	29
2.5 The enlargement of the EU in 2004 and 2007 and the financial crisis	35
3 Research on highly skilled migration in Europe: state of the art	42
3.1 Changing contexts of highly skilled migration: working towards the liberalisation of skilled migration flows.....	42
3.2 Rethinking the migration of highly skilled people: the research agenda	47
3.2.1 “Highly skilled migrants” as the subject of research	47
3.2.2 The neglected gender dimension within studies on highly skilled migration	49

3.2.3	Going beyond the dichotomy of “low skilled migration” and “highly skilled migration”	54
3.2.4	Redefining “highly skilled migrants” and “highly skilled migration”	56
3.3	An overview of recent studies on highly skilled migration pathways to and within Europe	58
3.3.1	Education – the ticket to work? Statistical evidence.....	59
3.3.2	Legal and institutional frameworks affecting highly skilled migrants: studying the interplay of class, gender and ethnicity	60
3.3.3	An agent-centred approach to pathways to the labour market ..	63
3.3.4	Experiences and coping strategies for deskilling and contradictory class mobility.....	70
3.3.5	The role of the family and social networks.....	79
3.4	Summary and research desiderata	83
4	Biographical approaches to migration and social mobility	85
4.1	Biographical approaches.....	85
4.1.1	Historical and theoretical background of the biographical approach.....	86
4.1.2	The central biographical concepts	93
4.2	Biographical approaches to migration.....	100
4.2.1	First approaches to migration from a biographical perspective	101
4.2.2	Links between the transnational and biographical approach ..	106
4.3	Shifting social positions in transnational spaces	119
4.3.1	Theorising social mobility in transnational spaces	119
4.3.2	The transferability of skills across borders	126
4.3.3	Translocal positionalities.....	129
4.3.4	Making sense of one’s own class positioning.....	132
4.4	Summary: biographical approaches to migration and social mobility	134
5	The research process.....	137
5.1	Telling the stories: the theoretical background behind the “biographical narrative interview”	138

5.1.1	Theoretical assumptions	139
5.1.2	The focus on storytelling	141
5.1.3	The autobiographical presentation.....	141
5.1.4	Narrative constraints.....	143
5.1.5	Cognitive figures of autobiographical presentation	143
5.2	The reflexive research process	147
5.3	Constructing the sample	149
5.4	Interview settings	150
5.5	The interview process	152
5.6	A brief summary of interviewees	153
5.7	Ethnographical notes.....	156
5.8	Transcription	158
5.9	Analysis.....	159
5.9.1	Formal analysis of the text.....	160
5.9.2	Structural description.....	162
5.9.3	Analytical abstraction and the construction of types	164
5.10	Reflections on the research process	167
5.10.1	Reflections on the research process in transnational settings .	167
5.10.2	The role of language and translation in the research process..	170
5.10.3	Being part of it: reflections on my own position within the field	172
6	Biographies	175
6.1	Background: the Czech educational system	176
6.2	Lenka: the difficult route from private to public sphere.....	178
6.2.1	Interview setting and biographical presentation	178
6.2.2	Lenka’s migration and social pathways	187
6.2.3	Summary.....	213
6.3	Martin: moving places and passing classes	215
6.3.1	Interview setting and biographical presentation	216
6.3.2	Martin’s migration and social pathways	223
6.3.3	Summary.....	240
6.4	Barbora: a story of reorientation	241
6.4.1	Interview setting and biographical presentation	242

6.4.2	Barbora's migration and social pathways	246
6.4.3	Summary.....	256
6.5	Arnošt: living in “exile”	258
6.5.1	Interview setting and biographical presentation	258
6.5.2	Arnošt's migration and social pathways	262
6.5.3	Summary.....	272
7	Cross-case comparisons and findings	275
7.1	Biographical reflections on borders and border crossings.....	275
7.1.1	Borders and border regions in biographical renderings	276
7.1.2	Becoming an “Eastern European” after migration	279
7.2	Migration as an enlargement of possibility spaces.....	281
7.2.1	Experiences of inequality in the region of origin.....	281
7.2.2	Discovering new possibility spaces through initial border crossings	284
7.2.3	Moving back and forth in transnational spaces.....	287
7.2.4	Doing “transnational work”	291
7.3	Linking spatial and social mobility	299
7.3.1	Biographies at the intersection of migration and gender regimes	299
7.3.2	Negotiating one’s own possibilities, skills and knowledge across borders	306
7.3.3	The question of translatability and recognition of social positions across the border.....	319
8	Conclusion	324
Bibliography and references		332
Index.....		363