

Content

Hans-Uwe Otto & Holger Ziegler

Introduction..... 7

Part I – Democracy and the Social – Theoretical Foundations

Robert Salais

The Capability Approach and deliberative democracy 13

René Lehweß-Litzmann

Rationality and freedom? Sen’s CA and critical policy evaluation 29

Benedikt Reusch

Capability and Freedom: Sen Re-examined..... 45

Zoë Clark

Participation without Welfare? The UN Convention on the Rights of the Child, feminism and the Capabilities Approach..... 59

Bénédicte Zimmermann

Capabilities and the Empirical Foundations of Critical Pragmatism 75

Part II – Theorising Social Policy – A Capabilities Perspective

Nicolai Suppa

The Capability Perspective: Basic Features and their Relevance for Social Policy 95

Albert Scherr

Autonomy versus constraints to market economy: What does social policy supply? 117

William A. Jackson

External Capabilities and the Limits to Social Policy 125

Elias Sahrai & Uwe H. Bittlingmayer

Empowerment and the Capabilities Approach in Public Health –
Some Remarks from the perspective of a scientific evaluation research 143

Norbert Wohlfahrt

On the relationship between the analysis of the welfare state and normative categories 167

Andrew Sayer

Contributive Justice, Class Divisions and the Capabilities Approach 179

PART III – Assessing Social Policy – What the Capabilities Approach may provide

Alexander Goerne

What is the value added of the Capability Approach for evaluating social and labour market policy? 191

Joan Miquel Verd & Martí López-Andreu

Capabilities as an assessment tool for social policies –
The example of the effects of non-formal training measures in Spain..... 207

Jean-Michel Bonvin

Towards a more critical appraisal of social policies –
The contribution of the capability approach 231

Contributors 249

Index 251